Creating the Most Pro-Business State In America

Why Kentucky?
Kentucky’s aggressive efforts to create a pro-business climate have not gone unnoticed, resulting in the creation of nearly 40,000 manufacturing, service and technology jobs since 2016 and nearly $15 billion in new investment. And thanks to a pro-business governor and legislature, even more business-friendly changes are on the way.

Kentucky works hard to take care of business. Whether it’s a business that is new to the state or one whose roots run generations deep, Kentucky makes sure companies have what they need to succeed. With some of the nation’s lowest industrial electricity costs, aggressive and effective incentive programs, an ideal location and an unsurpassed quality of life, Kentucky has become a top location choice for globally competitive enterprises. And now that Kentucky is a right-to-work state, Kentucky has become even more attractive.

Many of the world’s most successful companies have already discovered that Kentucky is a great place to build their business. The commonwealth is home to thousands of domestic companies, as well as more than 500 international firms representing 34 nations.

Kentucky has become a top location choice for globally competitive enterprises.

Be in Good Company
When you locate or expand in Kentucky, you’ll have access to some of the top companies in the world. For example, Ford, General Motors and Toyota have major manufacturing operations here, and Humana, YUM! Brands and Papa John’s are headquartered here. Ninety-five percent of the world’s bourbon is produced here, and Kentucky’s economy is growing at a record pace.

Investment in Kentucky in 2017 shattered previous records with more than $9.2 billion announced, creating more than 17,000 new jobs. An all-time record of $30.9 billion in products were exported to some 200 countries.

Our phenomenal growth is reflected in a series of national rankings:

- #1 in U.S. in vehicle production per capita
- #2 in U.S. in employment in motor vehicle manufacturing
- #2 in U.S. in aerospace-related exports
- #3 in U.S. in air cargo shipments
- #4 in U.S. in vehicle production overall
- #4 in U.S. in employment for upstream metal manufacturing
- #6 in U.S. in top manufacturing states by percentage of workforce
- #8 in U.S. among top business climates
Kentucky’s Advantages

Location, Location, Location!

Nature and nurture combine to make Kentucky a logistical paradise. Located at the center of a 34-state distribution area in the eastern United States, Kentucky’s location advantage facilitates the distribution of goods and materials to a massive industrial and consumer market. Kentucky’s borders are within a day’s drive of over 65 percent of the nation’s population, personal income and manufacturing establishments.

In addition, Kentucky offers three global air hubs–DHL, UPS and Amazon Prime–to offer overnight shipping virtually anywhere in the world.

Low Business Costs

It is less expensive to operate a business in Kentucky. Multiple studies show the state has below average business costs for both domestic and international companies. Kentucky also is among the best states in terms of labor costs and overall business climate.

Among the more significant location factors having a direct influence on bottom-line costs is the annual capital that must be committed to utility consumption. Kentucky has the lowest cost of electricity in the industrial sector among states east of the Mississippi River – and among the lowest nationwide – averaging 20 percent less than the national average.

Pro-Business Government

Right To Work

Kentucky is now a right-to-work state, meaning employees have the right to choose whether to join a union, and businesses are not forced to collect union dues for every employee.

Red Tape Reduction

Kentucky is reviewing every one of its 4,700+ administrative regulations with the goal to eliminate at least one-third. Hundreds have already been cut or amended to make them more business friendly and less burdensome, thus saving companies time and unnecessary bureaucracy.

Education Reform

Colleges and universities are working to cater to specific needs of businesses in Kentucky and to design curricula to meet their training requirements.

A Strong Focus on Workforce Training

Kentucky is revolutionizing its workforce training and delivery system. More than $200 million already has been committed to new and improved workforce training facilities, and Kentucky’s apprenticeship program has been revitalized to allow companies access to the best employees available. In addition, Kentucky offers companies a variety of personalized workforce development services. This includes reimbursable grants and tax credits for classroom and on-the-job training, pre-employment job screening, job recruitment fairs and other benefits.
Quality of Life
Kentucky is a place where your employees will want to live. It’s less expensive than the national average, and in fact, among the lowest cost of living states in the U.S. Here are some examples, courtesy of Sperling’s Best Places:
